Level 3: Area Representative Dealer (Maintains Wholesale Dealer minimums for 3–6 months)

To become a Area Representative Dealer, you must first be a Wholesale Dealer. As you establish your business and are maintaining the minimal sales requirements for 3-6 months, you will be granted exclusive territory rights and you will retain those rights as long as you maintain the minimal sales requirements. By retaining your exclusive territory rights, you will thus be the official Windowwell Expressions representative allowed to offer our products to other companies in your area. Windowwell Expressions Inc. will not open another dealer in your area as long as minimum requirements are being met. That's a lot of unlimited potential!

- Ownership changes when items are shipped.

Windowwell Expressions has multiple dealership levels and pledges to support you in accomplishing your goals at whatever dealership level you choose.

Setting-Up and Owning a Dealership

Owning a dealership is easy, but building a successful dealership requires discipline and working smart. By using our proven and successful sales and service processes you can own and build a successful business and have many satisfied customers. As you work to build your dealership business we will give you our on-going professional support and guidance. We believe we are all on the same team and we are working to assist you in building your business, achieving your goals, and overcoming any obstacles you may face.

You will be the owner of your own business

Of course, when setting up your dealership, you will need to obtain all of the required business licenses from your city and state. When you decide on a name for your business and license it properly, these licenses will make sure you get to own your business name and they also allow you to take advantage of all the benefits of owning a business. Seek assistance from the government workers in your city and state and be sure to ask them about their other professional business services if you wish.

Getting your dealership started is easy, just follow these three easy steps:

- 1) Determine what level of dealership you would like to set-up.
- 2) Prepare, in writing, any questions you may have that you want answered so that each of them may be addressed during our follow-up interview with you.
- 3) Complete the application forms, check them twice, attach your written questions as part of your application and mail them all to Bryan Buchi of Windowell Expressions.

Note: Windowell Expressions has gone to great lengths and expense to patent and protect our products. We believe this protects not only us, but also our dealers. We require every individual that works with us in any capacity to sign our Confidentiality Agreement to protect all those involved.

Windowell Expressions Introduction

If you're going to start a business, it is absolutely critical to work with a proven company with a proven product.

At Windowell Expressions we manufacture and install two high quality and innovative products. One product is a beautiful, simulated stone panelling liner system which has an unlimited range of uses, and the other product is our clear Lexan window well covers. All our products are backed by our great service and strong warranty. Our liners are less expensive than real rock, cost less to install, and are also faster to install. Installation only takes about one hour per well. Our Lexan covers are built to last and add safety and protection to any home.

The liner's coloring blends into the material.

At Windowell Expressions we are working hard every day to HIDE UGLY. As a distributor of Windowell Expression products and services you will be seeing lots of smiling faces and hear people say, "wow, that looks so good", many times over.

To receive benefits of any warranty, the Customer must notify Seller in writing, of the covered defect. Customer must allow Seller the opportunity to inspect prior to receiving any benefit under any warranty. Seller makes no further implied or expressed warranties.

At Windowell Expressions we are adamant about customer satisfaction and we will carefully work with you to ensure that your customer is satisfied and that the finished job is beautiful.

Product Line and Warranty

We stand behind you and our products

The more you know about our product, the more you will sell and the better your customers will feel about their investment. As you will see, we continually expand our product line to keep us on the cutting edge of polyurethane paneling/liner systems and Lexan covers. We are committed to producing a superior quality product to ensure that every customer is satisfied.

Our Paneling/Liner Systems

Our paneling/liner systems are made of two key components. The first component is a two part, 100% solid, fast curing, electrometric (rubber like) polyurethane material. The second key component is the factory mixed, coloring system that is used along with the polyurethane to create the look of real rock. We use the highest grade of U.V. protection available. For added service to your customers, any colors and sizes desired that are outside of our standard rock colors and sizes may be ordered factory direct, at an additional cost, with the same satisfaction guarantee.

Abrasion and weather resistant

All of our paneling/liner products provide excellent abrasion resistance and excellent weather resistance. Our panels have high tensile strength, elongation and tear strength properties. The panels will not crack, tear, or warp in any climate. The panels are virtually maintenance free. Adding these panels will increase the value and beauty of any surface you apply them to.

Unlimited uses:

With proper planning and preparation, the uses of our panels are bound only by your imagination. Our panels can be used in both interior and exterior applications. Our panels are an affordable alternative to other methods of beautifying and covering unsightly objects and also save on installation costs and time.

A few of the uses of our panels are:

- Covering metal, concrete or wood window wells
- Covering bare foundations
- Mobile home skirting
- Hot tub paneling
- Covering exteriors of yard sheds
- Interior applications include a Wayne's Coat on walls
- And many other surfaces you're wanting to have a rock looking appearance

Paneling Styles and Description:

Mediterranean River

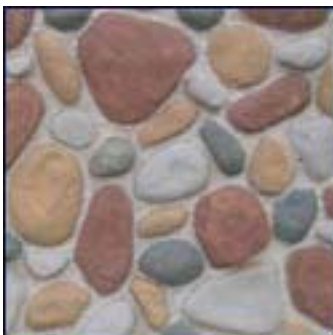

Tan mortar background with a combination of rocks colored red, dark tan, light gray and browns. This style matches many different decors and brightens up the window wells.

Cascade River

Light tan mortar background with a combination of rocks colored brown, light and dark tan. This has a very nice earthy feel.

Graystone Granite

Greenish grey mortar background and the rocks are black and white speckled just like real granite. This style is beautiful and very neutral and light.

Rustic River

Light tan mortar with red and tan rocks. This style adds brightness to a room. According to our customers, this style brings in the most light and fit with almost any décor.

Silver Quarry

Light gray mortar with a greenish gray and white rock. This style is very popular with people that want to bring in extra light yet don't want the window wells too bold or stand out.

Rustic Mountain

Light tan mortar background with a combination of rocks colored brown, red, light and dark tan. This has the nice rich deep colors, which makes it very classy.

Aspen River

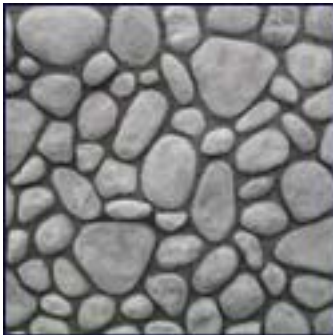

Tan mortar background with a combination of rocks colored red, dark tan, light gray and browns. Really brightens up a room with all its colors.

Malibu Slate / Stack Stone

A combination of colors – red, brown and tan tones. This style has a very modern look to it and looks beautiful in homes with tiled floors.

Italian Slate / Stack Stone

A combination of light tan, dark tan and a hint of brown. This is a nice light color and is very understated in a window well. This blends with any style and/or décor.

Gray Slate / Stack Stone

A combination of light gray, dark gray and white. A very stylish and neutral style for any décor.

Our Lexan Windowell Covers

We use a U.V. treated Lexan that carries a 10 year guarantee, has a 250 lb weight capacity, (every thing you will need if someone were to fall). Our support system is all aluminum. The two major bonuses of aluminum are: it is lightweight and it will never rust. When we install the Lexan covers, they are sloped side-to-side as well as back to front. The Lexan material will not crack, for a long time at least. Lexan is used in many applications when sheer impact is an issue. Airplane and race cars windshields are made from Lexan. You can literally hit it with a hammer (not recommended) and it will bounce back in place with no memory (meaning it won't leave a dent).

Frequently Asked Questions

Windowell Expressions has made every effort to eliminate color fading. We use the highest grade of U.V. protection available. Over the years, in foundation applications, color fading may occur in a minimal amount. For this reason, we inform our clients that they may need to have the product recolored and sealed on the home. The cost is minimal and we will teach all dealers how to do this. We have not found this to be a problem with our customers. It is a good residual business for us in 7 to 10 year periods. In addition, we use this as a selling advantage because the customer can choose to have the colors altered to fit their current style if they wish.

Frequently Asked Questions

Window well liners and foundations frequently asked questions:

1. Q: What sizes do window well liners come in?
A: 2 ft. X 5 ft. is the smallest size we make and 7 ft. X 12 ft. is the longest. We also make every size in between.
2. Q: Do you stock window well liners?
A: No. We custom manufacture for each customer depending on the size and style right for their home.
3. Q: Are all window wells the same?
A: No. Window wells vary depending on the age of your home and the size of window and well you have in your home.
4. Q: Are the window well liners difficult to install?
A: No. We will teach you.
5. Q: Are the window well liners expensive?
A: Well, they are not cheap. Polyurethane is not a cheap product, but it is known for its weather resistance and durability. It will outlast most of us!
6. Q: Do I install the window well liners?
A: Yes. In areas where you are the dealer. It really isn't that hard to do it. You can have someone else do installs for you if that is how you wish to operate your business.
7. Q: How do I properly measure a window well? (See complete instructions on web site)
A: For liners, you need to take a perimeter measurement and a depth measurement. You can measure from either the inside or the outside of the well. Be very careful when measuring, it hurts to fall in and you could be seriously injured. With your tape, wrap it around the inside perimeter concrete to concrete or into the the window depending on your style of well. Next, measure the depth. We suggest adding 2" to the depth so you can bury it below ground, but if you want to add some rock to dress up the bottom don't add anything.
8. Q: How do I measure a foundation? (See complete instructions on web site)
A: The best thing is to map out the area you want to cover. Measure the lengths and heights in numerous locations and then fax it to us.

Lexan window well covers frequently asked questions:

1. Q: Will the Lexan window well covers yellow?
A: We use a U.V. treated Lexan that has a 10 year guarantee.
2. Q: Are the Lexan window well covers strong?
A: Yes. As long as you don't plan on using it as a trampoline. They have a 250 lb. weight capacity. Everything you will need if someone were to fall.

Frequently Asked Questions

3. Q: What kind of metal are the Lexan window well covers made of?

A: Our support system is all Aluminum. Aluminum is lightweight and it will never rust.

4. Q: Are the Lexan window well covers sloped?

A: Yes. Side-to-side and well as back to front.

5. Q: Will the Lexan window well covers crack?

A: No. Not for a long time at least. Lexan is used in many areas where sheer impact is an issue. Airplane and race cars windshields are made from Lexan. You can literally hit it with a hammer (not recommended) and it will bounce back in place with no memory (meaning it won't leave a dent).

6. Q: Will Lexan covers fit all window wells?

A: Yes. However, we only have certain sizes available. If you send us a template, we will make them to your size at no additional cost.

7. Q: How do I measure window wells for covers?

A: Measure the widest part of the well where it meets the house and go outside edge to outside edge. Come around to the center of the well and measure from the house, not the window, to the outside edge of the well. Make sure to measure all your wells individually. They may look the same size, don't trust it, just measure.
